

How One Pajama Revealed the 8 Pillars of Human Connection

Genevieve Piturro

TEDx Speaker • Author • Founder of Pajama Program

Genevieve's journey has taken her from an executive in New York's television world to a little girl's question in a homeless shelter to Oprah to boardrooms and stages across America. She was a successful marketing VP until a sudden inner voice challenged her direction and she dramatically altered the path of her life. In 2001, she jumped off the corporate ladder and founded the successful national organization, Pajama Program, now celebrating its 25th year having provided more than 8 million pajamas and books to the children the organization serves.

Genevieve then created Purpose ACER, a training program focused on management excellence and team building. She has written two award-winning books on leadership, and today inspires others to lead with love and be a voice that moves the world.

In this talk, Genevieve engages her audience in eight uplifting exercises that reveal how emotion drives the world—with human connection at its core. By rediscovering the power of togetherness with purpose and heart, we drive greater business success, build more profitable organizations, and create a lasting impact on humanity for generations to come.

Your audience will learn:

- The 8 Pillars of human connection
- How to elevate any relationship from mediocre to excellent
- Proven ways to inspire others to rally behind a leader and goal
- Engage and empower teams to amplify impact

"If this is the next 30 years of your life, is this enough?" – Genevieve Piturro
